EZ - TROPPLER

Protecto

Protecto already sells 2 styles of Trotting Hopples.

Tropple A fastens to the sulky, and Tropple B comes up behind the horse's tail, and fastens to the crupper. We sell both, as horsemen ask for each one. However, both have good and negative features.

Protecto now offers the EZ Trotting Hopples which offers only positive features.

Tropple A – The Sulky style loosens up when you take a hold of the horse behind the gate (when Trotting Hopples are most needed) and is too tight finishing (when the horse is getting tired).

It also jerks back and forth, sometimes making a horse break stride.

Tropple B – The Crupper style may gall the horse's rear end and makes some Mares and Studs act very wild.

The Metal Plate styles of Trotting Hopples, which many people use, also have some undesirable features. Some horses can catch their hooves, making them break and even go down.

EZ Tropple – Solves all those problems listed above

The EZ Trotting Hopples is consistent throughout the mile, giving even trotting movements step after step, no lunging or jerking back and forth, and most important, it avoids tiring of the horse. No more rubbing problem between the legs, and there is no need to change the girth. The EZ Trotting Hopples is the easiest to use, with no need to make a major equipment change to hook up. The crupper attachment is easily removed for regular jogging and training. A different crupper is not needed, unlike the girth styles where you have to change the girth and add side hangers.

*Look at the EZ Trotting Hopples hook up.
It is so simple, yet so great,
and it is so EZ to install and use.*
